WAGES IN CALIFORNIA—THE DARK AND THE BRIGHT SIDE OF THE PICTURE—THE LABOR MARKET—DUTCH AND CHINESE COMPETITION—SUCCESSFUL IRISHMEN IN SAN FRANCISCO—EVILS OF INTEMPERANCE—EN ROUTE FOR OREGON—THE GOLDEN GATE—THE PACIFIC COAST—EMPIRE CITY—A METHODIST SETTLEMENT—THE INDIANS AGAIN—THE INFLUX OF CHINESE—AMERICAN OPINION OF ENGLAND AND THE ENGLISH—LAND TENURE IN IRELAND AND AMERICA.

EMPIRE CITY, Coos Bay, Coast of Oregon.

We must now give you some particulars about the wages here in California. A good, strong man, eighteen years old and upwards, can get six pounds a month and his diet as a farm laborer. "I spent two years amongst them, sir, and can tell you all about it," said our informant, a fine, able young man from our own country. "Those are high wages," we remarked, "and sufficient to set the teeth of all the country boys at home watering." "Yes, sir, but listen to what I had to do, and see how many of them could go through it. I was obliged to be up not later than 4 o'clock every morning, feed and harness my horses, breakfast, and then often have to travel two or three miles, and be on the sod ready to commence plowing when I had sufficient light to see. I then worked away until 12 M., when I pulled up, unhitched my horses, fed them, eat my dinner, and rested until 1 o'clock; then to work again, without ceasing until it was too dark to see. This may be at 7 or it may be at 9 o'clock, according to the season, and then came home. One would think this was enough for one day's work, but no. Before I was allowed to put a bit inside my lips I again fed my horses, fed all the hogs, the calves, and then fell to and milked ten cows. I generally worked 18 or 19 hours out of the 24. I stuck to it, intending to save money, come home and enlist, as a British soldier has the life of a prince compared to what I endured those two years. On my way back I fell in for an easy job of work in this city, and, although I still work very hard, I don't work any day more than ten hours." A carpenter earns about $3 here daily, and a mason or bricklayer about five. They complain that work is not constant, and find it very difficult to make the two ends meet. "What can I do?" said a young carpenter to us, to whom we had a ... from his mother, complaining that he was forgetting her. "I am often idle; besides, I must pay £2 8s for a pair of boots, and from £14 to £16 for a suit of clothes fit to go to church in." He considers four or five shillings at home far ahead of what he can earn here, and wishes he was at home. There are, however, many attractions here that render home, particularly in the rural parts, distasteful to young fellows that have been here any time. If they want to amuse themselves they can go to a ball and dance and flirt till daybreak, or they can go to the theater or circus, or join a picnic to the woods, and enjoy themselves in almost any way they wish. The food, too, here differs widely from what they were accustomed to at home. The mechanic, aye, and the laborer, here sit to a breakfast of beefsteak, mutton chops, fried ham and eggs, stewed fish, boiled ditto, hash, stews, ragouts, pickles, white and brown bread, hot corn cake, tea and coffee, &c., ad libitum. Dinner and supper pro rata. They complain that building contracts are now taken very low, a great many boss-carpenters having set up as contractors, and under-bidding one another they try and pull-up by knocking extra work out of their fellow-tradesmen, and hiring Dutch and Chinese labor.

Some of the wealthiest men in San Francisco are Irishmen. P. Donaghue, the great banker, is an Irishman; so is Miles M'Sweeney, the President of the Hibernian Bank; so is C. D. O'Sullivan the Vice President. By the way, Mr. O'Sullivan is from Skibbereen, in the ... of your county, and is looked up to as one of our city millionaires. A good many people from the old country have done well. A young fellow who saw our arrival in an hotel here on one of the papers called to see us. He was formerly in the constabulary in Bandon and its vicinity, and was a steady, respectable young man always; but seeing no chance of doing anything worth mentioning in the R. I. C., he came over here. He has a pound a day of our money, and has already saved up a considerable sum, with which he intends, in a few months, to buy a farm in Oregon, and settle down on his own fee-simple estate for the rest of his days. There are many others, too, who ought to have done well, but if they spend their money as fast as they earn it of course they cannot be a bit better off than when they started. Drink is the curse of our countrymen here. 'Tis uppermost in everything. "Come, take a drink from me, sir; 'tis some time since I saw you in the old country." Now nothing is better meant than this, and if you called for champagne, at a pound a bottle, you'd get it with cead mi la failthe, and no mistake; yet it is a most unfortunate kind of hospitality. If you drink you'll probably be annoyed with yourself for doing so, and if you don't drink you'll probably give offense where it was never intended or deserved.

We left Frisco on the evening of the 24th of June, on board the Eastport, for Oregon. We had scarcely got on deck when a gentleman ... us warmly by the hand and welcomed us. "Surely, sir, you must make a mistake, we're perfect strangers here." "Oh, not a bit of it; you're Mr. ——. I knew you at once by ——." He proved himself a good friend during the voyage, and gave us much valuable information. The Golden Gate is the entrance from the Pacific to the Bay of San Francisco. It is narrow, but contains deep water. The hills on both sides are brown, not a blade of grass or a tree to be seen. California is not a grass country. With plenty of water the ground can be made to produce anything; but without it we fear it cannot do much. Take San Diego, where the terminus of the new Transcontinental Railway will be, and you'll find that the rainfall is only ten inches a year, in Cork last year it was over forty. In order to get water for irrigating and domestic purposes, they sink artesian wells, some of these descend a thousand feet before they reach water, and many of them never reach it. Indeed, sinking those wells often costs more than the entire fee-simple of the whole concern is worth.

We don't know what induced the discoverers of this ocean on which we now are to call her the Pacific, as she seems just as cross and ill-grained as her big sister at your side of the globe. We are pitched up and down, rolled from side to side, and jerked about as if we were mere playthings. She is also treacherous in the extreme. You wouldn't know where you'd be when a huge wave would roll upon you. We were sitting quietly at breakfast one morning when a big fellow stole up, rolled the ship almost right over and dashed us, chairs and all, on the floor—cups and saucers, plates, dishes, knives and forks following in quick succession. There we lay, like an Indian, in our grave, with all these things atop of us just as if they were thrown in by some of our tribe to make us comfortable until we became acquainted with some of our brother red skins in the happy hunting grounds. We all got sick and had to mount our sea legs again, but the process was not so tedious as on board the Baltimore.

The coast all along here is timbered down to the water's edge. The timber, however, is light, consisting mostly of tall thin pines, which a boy could easily fall with an ax. The Oregon coast is very like our own bright green fields peep at us from between the woods. The brown hills are gone. It's all green grass and trees now. We passed two or three lumbering towns, and then put into Crescent City. Four or five ships are here laden with timber for Australia. Put into Port Orford—all timber to the water's edge, and inexhaustible supplies behind. They say the coast here abounds with mines of silver, quicksilver, ... &c.

We landed on Friday evening at Empire City and Coos Bay. One portion of the town appears to have got leave from the primeval ... to get a footing on the shore; but all the rest is built on piles in the water. All the houses are made of timber, including hotels, churches, &c. We do not know how many churches are here, but they all belong to the Methodist Episcopals. "We are all Methodists here," said our informant. "What! the whole town?" "Oh, yes, all those that go anywhere belong to the Methodist Episcopals." There is a minister stationed here and he seems to have plenty to do. To-day there is a large camp-meeting on the isthmus, and we regret very much we are unable to be present.

There are lots of Indians about here, but they seem a cowed, dispirited lot. "That's my Indian, sir," said a lady, introducing us to a low-sized, weakly built fellow, luxuriating in the name of "The Lieing Rock." "He brings me clams and wild fruit every morning." "The Lieing Rock!" We thought this poetic. In our innocence we fancied that the prefix referred to the time when the warrior wore his war paint and lay on the ground immovable as Olympus, waiting for the approach of his enemies, but, no, the prefix was supposed to convey to the looker on some allusion to a moral virtue, the possession of which Rock was never once supposed to have sullied his fingers with. "He seems a quiet, truthful poor fellow," we remarked to a bystander. "Quite—yes, sir-r. I guess he's quiet, for he knows you have a revolver under your coat tails; but as for truth, you couldn't persuade that fellow to tell the truth, even for his own interests. Besides, I think it would be injudicious to force him, for if the truth came at all it would surely come up the wrong way and choke him. The Indians must go, sir, only for those fools in the Eastern cities who sit over their comfortable tea-tables and read tracts about the conversion of 'Little Forked Lightning,' and how he gave his bearskin to the missionaries for the salvation of the poor heathen, we'd have wiped out this vermin long ago. Pity for them, indeed! Many a time I watched all night—rifle in hand—expecting a visit from Lieing Rock or some of his tribe to set fire to my barn and murder my wife and children, and many a time he was there ready to do so, but the fear of losing his wig restrained him." Talking of the Modocs, who, by the way, sent a message to our Indians to join them, the same gentleman told us the regular soldiers are not the men to be sent on Indian warfare. "What do they know about it? Most of them are young men recruited in New York or Boston, and never handled a rifle until they were put in uniform. Couldn't they leave them to the volunteers, whom they were obliged to call in at last to help them? Those are the lads who, if left to themselves, would soon lift their hair; but, no, sir, they want to do without us, but they can't."

There are an immensity of Chinese here. No less than thirty thousand are said to have arrived on this coast of California this year alone. They are a very quiet, inoffensive people. Already they have monopolized all the washing of the community here. And we speak from experience when we say we never saw better shirt-plaitings or better ironing done in our lives. They have also turned cooks, and will do just as they are told or see. 'Tis said a lady showed one of them how to make a pudding. First, she put in so much flour, butter, etc., and then, taking up an egg, she broke it; but finding it smelt badly, she threw it under the grate. The second was bad also, and followed the first. She then completed the task. Next day she set John Chinaman to work. John got on first rate till he came to the egg. The first he smelt he too threw under the grate. The second followed suit. "What?" cried the mistress, in terror. "Law, Chinaman, what are you doing?" "No tingee anlee whatee you didee yesterday." We like the Americans very much. Taking those we meet at hotels as a sample, they are very agreeable and intelligent, and as well up in the literature of our country as the best read men amongst us. You never look into a collection of books, however great or small, that you don't find Shakespeare, Lytton, Dickens or Byron. Even their books for children are the same as our own. "The House that Jack Built" is as great favorite with the American little ones as with our own; and as for Robinson Crusoe, we venture to say that ninety-nine out of every hundred boys here have read it before they were twelve years old. The real native-born American is generally a teetotaller and rarely drinks or smokes. He never swears unless you rile him about the Indians, and then he does come out. He goes early to bed, and is an early riser. During our many conversations with them, we never heard a disrespectful word said about old England. On the contrary, they feel quite proud of her and say, that there never was any other nation on the earth planted more colonies and was more successful with them. "Yes," said the gentleman, speaking to a room full of people no later than last night, "Let New York look across the Atlantic and she'll see old England herself. Let us here look up the Pacific and we'll see British America. Let us look down the Pacific and we'll see her Australian Colonies." He concluded some remarks of this kind by saying, "Long may our venerable old mother live," a sentiment which was heartily echoed by all present. Nevertheless we have seen some who seemed a little petulant. "You don't treat us right; you don't respect us." "How is that?" we asked. "Why, you're always making game of us. Whenever you portray a Yankee you sketch a starved skeleton-looking thing with a long nose, a long chin, straight long hair, as if pokers grew out of his head; short striped pants, as if he hadn't money enough to complete them, and this fellow who 'cut his eye-teeth, I guess,' is supposed to lie by the barrel." On another occasion, whilst conversing with a lady and speaking of the regard England had for her eldest son Jonathan. "Yes, sir, but then we can't forget that you drove our Puritan fathers out of England." "So much the better for them and their descendants," we replied. "See what a country you have here, if they all stayed at home since how would it be?" "Well, that's true," said she with a laugh, "but that don't acquit you nevertheless." "What do you think of your country yourself?" is a query that has been put to us on more than one occasion. "Oh, she's going down, she's getting old and stiff in her limbs. Rome, in her latter days, unable and unwilling to cope with the barbarians, used to buy them off, and when we see England adopt the policy of 'make-peace with your enemies, there's no fear of your friends,'" we think her latter days are come too. We referred to our new Land Act as a sample of this modern buy-off system of legislation, and mentioned that if a person let a piece of land to a man yearly for a certain sum per year, and should he afterwards—say at the expiration of a year or more—wish to get his land back he must pay that man from three to eight years' purchase for getting back his own, although when he was letting him that land, there was no such agreement as that between them. After repeating this over and over again to those we were conversing with, they professed themselves unable to understand it. "If I let you a portion of my farm in the Willamette Valley, sir," said one of those present, "for forty dollars a year, that being our agreement and nothing else, and that you take it, make money out of it and pay me the forty dollars, do you mean to tell me that before I can get possession I must return you the forty dollars you paid me, and two hundred and eighty of my own in addition simply to get back my own land?" "Certainly." "Oh nonsense, sir, you must be laboring under some delusion." We assured them it was a fact but they cannot comprehend it and we suppose, never will.

THE IOWA LIQUOR LAW.—A Davenport, Iowa, telegram of October 25th says: By the Supreme Court, the decision in the case of Polk county vs. J. Herb was not, as has been stated, that damages obtained in a suit growing out of a violation of the act for the suppression of intemperance, is a lien against the premises where the intoxicating liquors were sold, but that a lien may be established when it has been proven that the owner of the premises was cognizant of the traffic.

HOW CAPTAIN HALL DIED

THE POISONING STORY A "MISCHIEVOUS SUPPOSITION"—HIS DEATH ENTIRELY NATURAL—IMPORTANT STATEMENTS BY SECRETARY ROBESON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. Secretary Robeson made some important statements in conversation to-day regarding the result of the examinations of the two parties known as the Tyson party and the Buddington party of the Polaris Arctic expedition. He said that there was no longer any doubt that Captain Hall died a natural death, that there were no facts that pointed in the slightest degree toward any other story, and that the whole report had its origin in a mischievous supposition by a sensational newspaper. He said none of the gentlemen associated with him on the examination believed the contrary, and none of the witnesses credited the story, and all of them who have been in a condition to know pronounce the story impossible under the circumstances.

"The facts," said Secretary Robeson, "were as follows: Captain Hall was a man of full habit, a large eater, and subject to fits of heavy headache. His life on the Polaris had not been an active one, and he did not have as much exercise as he needed. To relieve his severe headache, it was his habit to eat large quantities of raw meat, beef being his preference. This produced the irritation and stimulation which relieved the vertebra and headache. The Polaris being blocked in and unable to proceed further, her commander decided on a hazardous and difficult sledge journey. It took him seven days of the severest trial and suffering to reach the highest point attained by man, and he was much of the time without the necessaries of life. He slept in the snow and ate the most unsuitable of food. He was often required to relieve the dogs by drawing the sledge himself. He returned in five days, having become familiar with the country. During these twelve days or two weeks he was exercising violently in an atmosphere twenty-five or thirty degrees below zero, and sleeping constantly in his skin clothes. The ship was covered with canvas, and was surrounded with snow and ice to the depth of many feet, a narrow pathway cut through the hard snow being the only means of reaching the deck. When Captain Hall returned he entered his cabin, eight by fifteen feet, which was wholly without ventilation and occupied by six other persons. This was heated by a stove-pipe from the cabin below. The air was fetid and unhealthy, and the Captain returned to this room in an exhausted condition, complaining that he was not well. He was fond of coffee and drank heartily of it. Lying down, still in his smothering suit of furs, vomiting, and a combination of vertigo, congestion and apoplexy followed and terminated fatally.

"As for the practical results of the investigation of this party for the past ten days," continued the Secretary, "nothing ever has been discovered. Of course they have more of scientific importance than the Tyson party, for they retained their instruments. Their experiences may also be made useful in the future. What I most desire is to see Mr. Bryan, who was one of the Scientific Corps, and who is spoken of by both the Tyson and Buddington parties as the most popular and one of the most trustworthy of the officers and crew. I have received a dispatch from him and his two companions that they have arrived at Dundee, Scotland. I have given them leave of absence for a week, when they will sail from Liverpool. They will be examined, and then I shall make my report, and it will be given to the public."

A PRAIRIE FIRE.

IT OVERTAKES A WOMAN AND THIRTY CHILDREN—SEVEN BURNED TO DEATH.

[From the St. Joseph (Mo.) Gazette.]

The intensely dry weather of the past season has rendered everything almost as combustible as gun powder, and already the reports come in thick and fast of the destruction of life and property by fire on the prairies.

On Thursday afternoon last, near Webster, Saline county, Nebraska, a shocking fatality occurred to Mrs. Jacob Morry, who was teaching school in a wooden building in the center of a large prairie. Some 30 scholars were in attendance, mostly very young children. About 2 o'clock a dense cloud of smoke, rolling up from the south, gave warning of the approach of fire. Realizing the danger, Mrs. Morry, the teacher, instantly dismissed the school, and taking the little ones under her care, started for a place of safety. She scarcely made a quarter of a mile before the flames of the prairie came dashing up with lightning speed. The grass was dry as tinder, and the fiery element swept on with resistless power. It was an awful hour for the poor woman, yet she never shrunk from the terrible danger, but pressed on with the children to reach some spot where all could be secure. All the brave woman's efforts were in vain. The fire monster described a circle within which were the doomed victims, and escape seemed impossible. Still she struggled on, and finally succeeded in placing twenty of the children beyond the reach of danger, and then, having done all that a human being could do, the poor woman, with six of the little ones, perished in the flames. Four others of the children barely escaped with their lives, being terribly burned. No sadder sight could be conceived than the spectacle of those six little charred and blackened corpses, lying side by side with that of their brave teacher, on a lone prairie in Nebraska. And yet, perhaps, there were seven more angels in Heaven.

THE COMIC CASTLE OF MARK TWAIN.—A Hartford correspondent of the Springfield Union writes:

The oldest piece of architecture in this city can be seen out on Farmington avenue, about a mile west of the depot, in a house being built for Mark Twain, who is roughing it In-no-cents abroad (forgive the pun), but who left the plans and contracts in the hands of a prominent builder, who is pushing things rapidly along. The style is indescribable, being a sort of a cross between a Mexican adobe hut and a Swiss cottage, built of brick, to cost $40,000. It stands not far from Governor Jewell's, on the opposite side of the street, where it commands a fine view of the west and north, and is just the sort of house to cause a stranger to stop and inquire, "Who lives in that queer-looking house?" Although the avenue runs east and west, the house, instead of facing the street, faces east. On the north end is a small building, near the street, which contains the kitchen and servants' room, separate from the main building, while immediately adjoining is a large dining room, 17x30, having but little light, so that when used it will be necessary to light the gas. The parlor is where the kitchen would be located in any other house, while Mark's own room, where most of his time will be spent, is at the top of the house, and, in order to offset the want of light in the dining-room, this room is almost entirely of glass. Take it all in all, it is the queerest piece of architecture one has ever seen, but with one redeeming feature, that is, open fire places all over the house, and generous-sized ones too.

ON TRIAL.—Joshua P. Ifenberger, through whose carelessness the awful accident lately occurred on the Chicago and Alton railroad, is now on trial at Chicago for his great crime. His lawyers are endeavoring to throw all the blame on the watch of the engineer, which having inopportunely stopped, is considered to have relieved the owner himself from all culpability. From present appearances, the trial looks a great deal like a farce. Beane the conductor, who has obtained a change of venue, will be tried in Joliet in January next.

A farmer at Goshen, N. Y., Daniel Carpenter by name, raised 360 bushels of potatoes this year from one acre of land. They were Early Rose seed balls, and were called Carpenter's seedlings.

Private advices from Havana state that in the recent storm, three Spanish gunboats were lost at Guantanamo, and two at Batabano, and one at Sagua La Grande.

ARTIFICIAL BUTTER

A correspondent of the Philadelphia North American describes a process of making butter directly from the fat of the animal, instead of from cream. He says it is carried on in Philadelphia by a company with a capital of half a million dollars, which company owns the patent and has sold several of the States at high figures. We give the greater part of his statement.

This butter is made from the same material as ordinary butter, but this material is obtained by a much more simple and natural process than that of milking the cows, etc. In ordinary butter it is not the cream that is made into butter, but the oil in the cream. The butter when made is composed of oil, mixed with sour milk or butter milk. If the butter is warmed up to a certain point you have nothing but oil. Now this oil was secreted (and went into the milk) from the fatty tissues of the cow. It is a round about way—and not always very cleanly—to obtain butter.

Now, the new process of making butter is to go to the original source of the oil, viz. to the fatty tissues of the animal. This fat taken from any beef creature when killed—cow, steer, etc.—is taken and ground into a fine pulp. It is then warmed up to about 112 degrees Fahrenheit, when it is enveloped in linen cloths and the oil pressed out, large iron presses being used for the purpose. This oil is then cooled down to about 80 degrees and placed in the ordinary churn, adding the same quantity of water or milk—though I believe they now use sour milk in preference, and a little anato, a vegetable preparation used to color cheese, when the churning commences. In four minutes the operation ceases, and a splendid article of butter is turned out. The water or milk is then "worked out," as the ordinary butter milk, and an ounce of salt to the pound added.

Now, one would naturally say, "This butter is made from tallow!" Not so. It is made from the same material as tallow—as also the same material as ordinary butter—the oil from the fatty tissues of the animal. Tallow is made by heating the fat and "frying out" the oil, which changes its nature.

It is a remarkable fact that seventy-five pounds of this oil produces one hundred pounds of butter, the extra twenty-five pounds of butter being increased by the water, milk and salt.

Now, the question is, "Is this good butter?" I answer that it is. It is purer, sweeter, better than any Philadelphia butter sold at one dollar per pound. The best judges cannot distinguish it by taste, smell or sight from the choicest butter sold in market.

There are several remarkable facts connected with this invention. One is that this oil can be furnished by the butchers at ten cents per pound, so that the cost of the butter does not exceed twelve cents per pound. Another fact is, that the butter never becomes rancid or frowy by time. Some of it has been sent to Brazil and back, and it came back as sweet as when started.

The company are now turning out about a thousand pounds per day, and it is estimated that when the additional machinery is introduced, they will turn out ten thousand pounds daily. All they can make now is taken by a few leading hotels and restaurants. It is sold at the usual price of best butter.

EXPLORATION IN PALESTINE.

ARRIVAL OF THE AMERICAN PARTY AT DAMASCUS—THE MOABITE IDOLS—THE SHAPIRA COLLECTION.

The American Palestine exploration party has arrived at Damascus. A correspondent of the London Times, writing from that city under date of Sept. 20th says:

They have surveyed about 550 square miles south of Es-Salt. Their work has been carried on in the midst of Arab wars and rumors of wars, and they themselves have been frequently assailed, fired on, and captured; but they have thus far escaped injury. They have gone on to the Lebanon above Beyrout, and as soon as the great heat is over they intend to return to the prosecution of the survey. The most important discovery and identification which they have is that of Nebo (which will be described in their forthcoming quarterly report), and, what is, perhaps, more interesting, they express unqualified scepticism with regard to the genuineness of the Shapira collection of "Moabite idols."

The collection of inscribed pottery at Jerusalem has been for some time a subject of deep interest to archæologists. As a rule, English archæologists have little confidence in the genuineness of the "Moabite idols," while, on the other hand, the Prussians have purchased, for a large sum, a portion of the pottery. The Americans have been a greater portion of their time beyond Jordan, in the region from which the pottery was said to have been brought, but they state that they have been unable to find any trace of it. They have interpreters who are excellent Arabic scholars, and who know the Arabs and their ways. Professor Paine has also seen a great deal of the people in his capacity of physician. From morning to night the people come to him from far and near, bringing whatever they can part with in return for medicine—wheat, bracelets, coin, &c.—but though they made the pottery a special subject of inquiry, they could hear nothing of it whatever. Professor Paine says he is morally certain that nothing of the character of the "Moabite idols" has been taken across the Jordan to Jerusalem during the last six months. A special element of suspicion to some minds with reference to the "Moabite idols" was the fact that the supply followed immediately on the demand. But this objection was met by the statement that formerly the pottery was taken to Damascus and and ground up for cement. A singularly able article recently appeared in the Congregationalist on these "Moabite idols." In this article it is said "camel loads innumbered have been carried to Damascus, where the powdered divinities were used to line the cisterns." I have taken special pains to ascertain the truth of this statement. I visited the places where the pottery is ground up in Damascus, and was told that the city had enough old pottery of its own to supply cement to the whole province. * * * The Shapira collection may be as genuine as it is extraordinary, but the negative evidence to the contrary is certainly accumulating. On the whole the question is so interesting and important that it is worth taking some trouble to discover the truth.

EIGHT YEARS WITHOUT EATING.—There is a young woman named Mary Pineher, residing at the corner of Gates avenue and Downing street, Brooklyn, who has, it is asserted by her physician, Dr. S. F. Speir, taken no food for eight years. She is twenty-five years of age, bright and intelligent. As a girl she was a close applicant to her studies and was wont to abandon her meals to ponder over her books until the strain upon her intellectual and physical strength overcame her. She also sustained injuries by being thrown from a horse. Subsequently she fell off a Fulton avenue car and was dragged along the street for a distance of forty feet by her crinoline catching in the car. She was then afflicted by absolute nervous prostration and has since been confined to her bed. Her legs are twisted and her hands are drawn up behind her head. She sleeps but little and is said to be endowed with clairvoyant faculties. She works embroidery in colors with great facility and has made slippers and smoking caps with mottoes worked in them. The doctor is positive that there is no deception in the case and has used every effort possible to detect any sign of imposition, but to no purpose. The case has baffled the skill of hundreds of physicians who have examined it.—N. Y. Herald, Oct. 23d.

STRANGE SUICIDES.—A Forest (Ontario) dispatch of the 25th ult. says:

A man, woman and child with tickets from Chicago to Brockville, got off a train here yesterday, alleging that parties on board wanted to kill them. They went to a hotel, and later the three jumped into a deep pool of water. The man and the child were drowned, but the woman was rescued.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY LEGISLATURE.

Fourth Biennial Session.

[From our Special Correspondent.]

OLYMPIA, Nov. 4, 1873.

The principal business transacted yesterday afternoon was the passage of the amended School Bill and the Probate Bill.

This morning, on approaching the Capitol, I heard considerable laughing, and, on inquiry, I found that the Council had heretofore been working in pears, while the House had been doing business as a Committee of the Whole, and prior to the usual business of the day, a member of the House made a raid on the Council provision chest, and got off safely with a box of fine Bartlett pears, thus establishing the supremacy of the House, knocking the pear ring on the head, and substituting some other fruit instead.

The Journal being read and approved, Mr. Henry, of Thurston, introduced two petitions—one signed by 168 ladies of the Territory praying for the rights to which all citizens of the United States are entitled—that is, the right to vote; the other signed by a large number of male inhabitants of the Territory, praying the Legislature to grant the petition of the ladies.

Mr. Eldridge moved that the petition be referred to a select committee, which being carried, Messrs. Eldridge, Henry and Kuhn were appointed for that purpose by the Chair, and the committee requested to report as early as possible.

Mr. Ward introduced a bill to amend the act incorporating the town of Tumwater. Read three times and passed.

Mr. Eldridge introduced an act making an appropriation to defray the expense of arresting and returning to this Territory the supposed murderer of the Dwyer family. Referred to Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. Bush—Act exempting certain property from taxation, refers to railroads while in course of construction. Referred to Corporation Committee.

Mr. Kuhn—Act to authorize the authorities of Port Townsend to borrow $2,500, to purchase fresh water, the citizens of that town having already a superfluity of salt water on hand. Read twice and referred to Committee on Corporations.

Mr. Judson—Act to repeal an act providing for payment of St John's Lunatic Asylum at Vancouver. Referred to Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. Favorite—Act to relocate the County Seat of Whitman county. Referred to Committee on Counties.

Mr. Caton introduced a memorial asking for an appropriation to overcome obstacles in Columbia river. Read three times and passed.

H. B. No. 18, relative to licenses, was made the order for 2 P. M., after which the House adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

H. B. No. 18—Relative to licenses, taken from the table.

Mr. Clymer moved to indefinitely postpone, which was lost.

The bill was then discussed, the printed bill being substituted for the original, which had been destroyed while in the hands of the printer, by the upsetting of a lighted lamp. So many typographical errors occurred in the printed copies that the members were kept busy correcting. This bill provides for granting licenses to sell intoxicating liquor without presenting a petition for the same.

Mr. Caton, having called Mr. Van Vleet to the chair, proceeded to give his reasons for not voting in favor of the bill. He objected to a compilation of the laws as proposed, or anything tending to retard legislation, and was opposed to doing sixty days business in forty.

Considerable skirmishing took place between several members, after which the bill was read a third time, and the question being put as to its final passage resulted as follows: Ayes, 12; nays, 15. So the bill was lost.

The bill giving the Governor authority to appoint Commissioners of Deeds was read a third time and passed.

A bill to dissolve the bonds of matrimony between Andrew J. and Sarah J. Moses was lost.

After which the House adjourned.

The Yakima gold mining excitement is felt very extensively at the Dalles.

A lady looking for a lost daughter was in Salem a few days ago, but the lady is now lost, having suddenly departed, no one knows whither.

A Teachers's Institute for Marion county will be held at Salem shortly. A preliminary meeting will be held in the Superintendent's office on Friday evening, the 7th inst.

The Eugene Journal of Saturday last says: "Hon. J. H. D. Henderson has left at this office several pears of the Bartlett variety, which are the second crop from the same tree this season. They are not quite so large as those of the first crop, though as perfect in every other respect."

The Albany Register of Wednesday says: "There is but little wheat now coming to town, the farmers having hauled pretty much all in except wheat they can keep in their own granaries. Buyers are only offering 95 cents here, and farmers will hold their grain in preference to taking that figure."

The Register says: "The little difference of opinion on the question of locating the Albany and Santiam Co's ditch has been amicably settled to the satisfaction of all concerned. It is to be brought into town where it will do the most good. Our mill men and others rejoice in the prospect of soon having sufficient water to turn all the machinery they may wish to run."

The State Board of Equalization made some mistakes in equalizing Linn county, which the Register says will be very perplexing to the county officers. It is very evident that in creasing the assessment 192 per cent. in the matter of swine would amount to more than the Board have made it. In the matter of the railroad is another agravating mistake. The original assessment was $204,000. From this amount there was a deduction made by the County Board of $8,234, which would leave $195,766, and to take $6,667 96, the amount of the State Board's deduction, would leave $189,098 04, instead of $197,332 04 as they have it. As the State Board has adjourned it leaves the county officers in a quandary what to do in the premises.

From the Salem Statesman of Wednesday, the 5th, we learn that William Cosgrove has kept a saloon near the Fair Grounds for a long time, where he and Patrick Flynn, his bar tender, had been in the habit of sleeping, they being the only occupants of the building. About 10 o'clock Sunday morning a rumor went out upon the streets that Cosgrove had been murdered, the report even going so far as to say that his skull had been mashed in by a blow from some heavy instrument. Justice Coffey, who is acting Coroner, proceeded to the premises where he found the man lying dead in his bed, and Flynn, the bar-keeper, bearing an ugly cut over one eye, which served to confirm the suspicion that the dead man had been foully dealt with. A jury was summoned to inquire into the cause of the death of the deceased. It was shown in evidence before the jury that there had been a fight in the saloon Saturday night during which Flynn had received a severe cut near the eye from a piece of broken bottle, but that Cosgrove had no part in the row, he being at the time unable to leave his bed. From this and other evidence, and according to the opinion of a physician, the Coroner's jury found a verdict to the effect that deceased came to his death by the use of ardent spirits.

Massachusetts finds it impossible to get young men to work her farms. The State established an Agricultural College, at a cost of between $300,000 and $500,000, and has graduated ten farmers.

The Crow Chiefs do not seem very well pleased with the bargain they have made to cede land to the Government. At a council in Washington last week, one of the Chiefs said the Government had given them for their country a tract of land on which there is no wood, water or grass, nothing but rocks, and his people could not raise corn to eat.

At a meeting of Tacoma Lodge No. 4, I. O. G. T., held on Friday evening, Oct. 31st, the following officers were elected to serve during the ensuing term: Fred. Guyot, W. C. T.; C. A. Sands, W. V. We endorse what the Tacoma Tribune says about the message of Gov. Ferry, and can truly say that the document was an able one in every sense. We received two copies, one from the Echo office, in supplement form, the other from the office of Messrs. Harned & Pegley in pamphlet form. The latter was an excellent specimen of the typographical art, and showed superior taste and skill in their workmen.

The locomotive report of the Denver Pacific Railway for the month of August shows the number of miles run by passenger engines to have been 7,463; freight, 5,856; miscellaneous, 3,200; making the total mileage, 16,629. The average number of miles run to one ton of coal was 57.08, and to one quart of oil, 24.03. The average cost of wages of engineers and firemen was $5 34; cleaning and watching engines, $1 12; fuel, $6 00; repairs, $3 37; stores, 60 cents; making the total cost per mile run, $16 93. The cost of wood per cord was $6 13, and coal per ton, $3 25.

The Salt Lake Herald says: "Bret Harte has entered the lecture field for the season, and is making as signal a failure as did Stanley Africanus in his efforts to tell how he found Livingstone. Bret appeared on the rostrum at St. Louis a week ago. He was attired in full dress, with spotless linen, and diamond studs; but his audience, after straining their auricular organs for two hours in vain efforts to catch the faint and timid echoes of his voice, voted him a bore, and adjourned disgusted. Much as people may admire the genius that gave to literature the story of "That Heathen Chinee," or the tale of "The Luck of Roaring Camp," they have no ambition to be placed on nettles by a languid, timid, mild-voiced lecturer. Let the shoemaker stick to his last."

The Cincinnati Commercial heaps these new insults on the long-suffering citizens of the land of wooden nutmegs and kindred ingenious devices of the money-making Yank:

The balloonists who landed at Canaan, Ct., lately, are convinced that the average Canaanite is not a lover of science. When the spilled voyagers reached their runaway air ship it was surrounded by a crowd of natives, who had stripped the boat of everything portable, and were then devising ways and means to realize on the whole concern. They appropriated the clothing and personal effects of the aeronauts. Then the man on whose land the balloon struck put in a heavy claim for damages; the man who had caught and he who had kept the crowd off each wanted a slice, and to secure these claims the Sheriff attached the entire property for $900. The claimants came down a little from this sum, but Donaldson & Co will never descend into Canaan again.

CORRECTION.—Our Olympia correspondent writes:

In your issue of the 29th ult. I notice an extract taken from the Courier referring to Rev. Mr. Hyland having resigned his charge at Port Townsend, but in a conversation with that gentleman I find the matter to be incorrect, as Mr. Hyland is still pastor of Port Townsend church, although acting at present as chaplain to the House of Representatives, and pastor of St. John's Church, Olympia.

SWIFT JUSTICE.—Says a Jackson, Mich., dispatch Oct. 25: August Kellar has been working for a farmer some miles out, for several weeks, and had gained the confidence of his employers. Yesterday the farmer and his wife went away from home and left the German in charge of the house. He improved the favorable opportunity and made off with $500 in money. He was arrested last night, tried to-day, and left for the workhouse this afternoon to serve out a three years sentence. All was done in less than twenty-four hours.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.—Jean Frey, a workman employed at the Western Lead Works, Philadelphia, fell into a large vat. Four men attempted to rescue him, but, being overcome by the gas therein, were pulled out insensible. Restoratives were applied, and they recovered. A fifth man named Snyder also attempted to rescue Frey, but he also stayed down too long, and when pulled out life was almost extinct. He was taken to the Episcopal Hospital, but cannot recover. Frey's body was finally recovered.

THE UTAH COMPLICATION

For several years the people of the Territory of Utah have occupied an anomalous position. At various times we have had the singular spectacle of a handful of men, whose vicious and immoral practices had driven them from the other communities of the East into the wilderness, defying the laws of the land and the authority of the General Government. Crimes of the most flagrant and outrageous nature have been perpetrated and the criminals have uniformly escaped punishment. And when at one time the Federal authorities in Utah were driven by public opinion into an attempt to check the excesses the Mormon hierarchy, arraigned in the probate courts, successfully resisted every assault and [illegible] challenged the legislative and the executive powers. Meanwhile Congress, through cowardice or indifference, [illegible] musing spasmodically on the first amendment to the Constitution. This indecision, more than incompetent local administrations has brought the authority of the Government into contempt. The lawbreakers of Utah have taken new courage from each failure to enforce the laws. Mistaking this irresolution for clemency they have come at last to boasting that they are beyond the reach of the national arm. Only a week ago Hawkins, whose prosecution and conviction on a charge of adultery preferred by his first wife was trumpeted all over the country as a vindication of the law and a proof that justice was not utterly powerless, was set at liberty. And so at every turn the United States Attorney and the United States Courts have been checkmated.

Hawkins was liberated by a judgment based on the well known decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Clinton et al vs Englebrecht et al. In this case the Supreme Court was called to decide whether or not it is the duty of the United States Attorney for Utah to [illegible] in the several counties all persons accused of offenses as well against the laws of the United States as against the laws of the Territory. The Territorial Court held that such was his duty on the ground that the courts of the Territory were also courts of the United States. But the Supreme Court—Chief Justice Chase delivering the opinion—overruled that decision on appeal and held also that a United States Marshal can not [illegible] a venire in causes under the statutes of the Territory. Of course this upset all the prosecutions brought under the vigorous administration of Governor Woods, and effectually paralyzed all efforts to bring the Utah thugs to account for their crimes. The unfortunate events of last spring followed from this decision of the Supreme Court, and although the [illegible] was pressed upon the attention of the last Congress by Delegate Claggett, of Montana, that august body declined to [illegible] with the Mormon problem.

[illegible] attention has again been called to the Utah difficulties by reading in the proceedings of the Supreme Court, now [illegible] at Washington, of two cases pending, in one of which the same questions as were decided in the case [illegible] are raised. In the other case the Court is called to rule on the question of jurisdiction of the Territorial Probate [illegible] under the act of Congress organizing the Territorial government. It is quite probable that the opinion of [illegible] Chase will be reasserted. In that event, Congress will again have to [meet] the distasteful question it has so long evaded. The Utah case may as well be settled this winter by decisive legislation. If Congress doesn't want to interfere with polygamy it can at least protect life and the extensive property interests of the Territory by creating tribunals in which offenders can be tried and punished.

THROUGH IRISH SPECTACLES

Some thoughtful friend (in Limerick we suppose,) has sent to the OREGONIAN two copies of the Irish Daily Telegraph containing the letters of a correspondent on this coast to that paper. He has our thanks for the favor. On the first page of this number we republish in full the letter on Oregon. Our readers will we are confident, be well pleased with the tone of frankness and candor which pervades the entire article. The burdensome labors which oppress the farm hand in California are a little exaggerated, perhaps, if the complaint of the young emigrant alluded to in the letter is to be applied to the class of which he is an individual member. We do not doubt, however that in some instances impositions of the kind noted are to be met with. The grievance of the young carpenter however is most greatly overrated by himself. He says "I am often idle besides I must pay £[illegible] 8s. for a pair of boots and from £14 to £16 for a suit of clothes fit to go to church in"! That is a stunner certainly. The first part of the complaint is as much as we can believe. And we can't help suggesting that young carpenters of his class are not uncommon. The young gentleman who considers himself unfit to appear in God's house unless he has an $80 suit of clothes on his person is out of place in a country where [illegible] that "Why we venture the assertion that out of every hundred people that attend church in this country ninety wear suits costing from $35 to $60. We don't want to say that the wearers of eighty dollar suits are not in the habit of going to church or more particularly, that the "young carpenters" who sport such gorgeous apparel are more familiar with the jack of spades than a jack plane. The specimen who uttered this [illegible] complaint would [illegible] just a little more [illegible] British soldier than [illegible].

There is another [illegible] letter. The real [illegible] is generally a teetotaler [illegible] drink or smokes. He never swears [illegible] rile him about the Indians and [illegible] does come out. This portrait differs materially from that drawn by Charles Dickens in "Martin Chuzzlewit." Neither of them are exactly correct. But the observing correspondent has doubtless found out his mistake by this time. As far as we are concerned he need be in no haste to correct this error.

All things considered the letter of this correspondent is by far the fairest and most truthful of any we have ever seen in foreign print. The style and language bespeak the [illegible] gentleman. The writer would be a valuable acquisition to any community. We hope that he will not leave the Pacific coast without traveling [illegible] the State. Wherever he goes he should receive a hearty welcome from every friend of Oregon. We wish our State could be visited by a thousand like him. His letter [illegible] a careful [illegible].

THE IOWA LIQUOR LAW

The United States Supreme Court now has under consideration a case appealed from the Supreme Court of Iowa which presents the question whether the various State laws forbidding the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors are not in conflict with the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution. The argument of the appellant is that as such liquors are recognized as property by the Revenue and other Federal laws, no State can deprive its citizens of the right to manufacture, hold and deal in them, and that the party whose property has been seized and destroyed under the prohibitory law is entitled to redress under the provisions of the amendment cited. The decision on this point will be looked for with considerable interest by all interested in the cause of temperance. In this connection we note that the Supreme Court of Indiana has decided in full bench, all the justices concurring, that the State law in its sections relating to the granting of permits to sell intoxicating liquor and prohibiting the sale thereof without permits is constitutional. The chief objection upon which the opponents of the law relied was that the petition of a certain number of people was required to render the statute operative and that it was local and special whereas it should be general and uniform. This objection with other minor points was overruled by the court and the Indiana liquor law stands.

SO MUCH THE WORSE

The repeaters organ says it is known that Bruce, the convicted repeater, is a Democrat, and that he was bribed to vote for Nesmith. So much the worse for the Custom House bribers, because Bruce himself confesses that he was bribed by certain persons connected with the Custom House ring. Just note how the Bulletin is sidling up to the successful candidate. Wonder how Mr Nesmith appreciates these overtures? Query What subsidy is Mr Holladay in need of now?

A STIRRING APPEAL

A correspondent of the Washington Chronicle has noticed that multitudes of men join lodges, societies etc, and cheerfully give time and money to their support who will yet have nothing to do with churches, and when spoken with on the subject, they reply, "My order my lodge cares for me when I am sick, will bury me when I die, will feed and clothe my orphan children." Church members too, he thinks, are apt to say when solicited for aid, "O the church is a spiritual institution, it takes care of men's souls it isn't an almshouse, it don't deal with worldly matters." To this view of the duties and obligations of the church he takes exception in the following stirring words:

Big pile of brick and mortar and a steeple that cost thousands of dollars pointing upwards, shadow falling across garret window, widow pale face bleeding heart shivering in tattered garments, barefooted orphan starving. Men call that a church, forgetting that the Church of the living God is not made with hands—the Church is the Lamb's Bride. Wherever is found walking on God's footstool a man with a renewed heart—the name the new best name sealed upon it by the Holy Ghost—pounding away beneath his jacket of country jeans or of fine linen there is the Church—the Lamb's Bride. Those piles of masonry, the places for the Church to assemble for worship and to devise means for the uplifting of humanity. But alas! alas! what burlesque comedies are enacted inside of some of these so-called fashionable churches! Magnificent structure—brass tinsel statuary—cost $100,000. Salary and expenses $10,000 to $20,000 per year. Big organ, paid opera singers who would sing [illegible] songs for the devil at the same price. Three hundred members—women bedaubed bedecked bespangled bejeweled—assembled to worship Him in whose presence nothing impure can ever enter, nothing that defileth or maketh a lie! Books show twenty additions to my church in a year.

Souls starving dying all around no money to pay missionary men and women to go into the slums, the byways and hedges and compel them to come in; no money to build houses for fallen women whose seducers stalk abroad unwhipped of justice—pests of fashionable society! But enough of this. I sicken in the contemplation of the sad perversions of the teachings of our Divine Redeemer. My house is not a den of thieves. Glad to know that this picture is only to be seen in large cities, and then only here and there.

There comes up a wailing from a stricken city at the South. Death in parlor, death in each bed chamber all through the house and at every house in the square; death in the hall, in the garret, death in the street, death everywhere [illegible] boxes and [illegible] express wagons [illegible] put away out [illegible] whom heart strings [illegible] Brave souls with their lives in their hands and the spirit of Christ in their hearts [illegible] the dread [illegible] and attend at the bedside of the dying. [illegible] another takes the vacant place.

The ranks [illegible] their loved ones suffer and [illegible] prayer with the [illegible] Him who gave [illegible] the [illegible] preacher and angels of mercy [illegible]

[illegible] preached [illegible] brethren at Memphis [illegible] Sunday morning [illegible] Washington [illegible] appeal on behalf [illegible] brothers [illegible] world that [illegible] things [illegible] Christian better worship [illegible] within the walls of a tent and have money to send praying and preaching to [illegible] than to worship in gilded temples and have nothing to give to the Lord's poor.

Harper the defaulting Illinois Collector of Internal Revenue has made good his escape with a sack full of the people's money. His cashier Albert Smith has been indicted by the grand jury of the United States District Court. First he is charged with having received a bribe of $4,000 from one H P Westerman for advising delay in the collection of certain revenue taxes; also with receiving $4,000 of the capital stock of the Pekin Alcohol Company as a bribe; also with the receiving $3,500 from the Pekin Distilling Company. Indictments have also been presented against Henry P Westerman and David F Thompson of Pekin for bribing Smith and against Levi Parsons Harper's deputy at Pekin for embezzling $3,000. The grand jury uncovered a full nest of robbers, defaulters and embezzlers it seems. A few years in the penitentiary will help that Illinois ring to understand that the people and the courts are in no mood to grant indulgences to official rascality. In the words of him who swung around the circle a few years ago stealing must be made odious.

The Washington Chronicle says of the business before the United States Supreme Court:

The docket is very full and under the new law allowing appeals and writs of error from State courts whenever a Federal question is raised on the trial it must continue to increase and perhaps even to the extent to require a remedy.

CITY.

THE MAN BROWN IN LIMBO.—Readers will remember the case of the fellow Brown who was arrested several weeks ago for burglarizing a private house in East Portland, and stealing therefrom $160. Brown was arrested on the strength of a long chain of suspicious circumstances which seemed to point him out as the guilty party. Accordingly, Brown was lodged in jail. But the first night he effected his escape. Nothing was heard of the escaped prisoner for some days. At length a series of petty burglaries were committed along up the line of the railroad, evidently by the same person who was traveling southward. A shot gun was stolen from a house at Marion Station, during the absence of the occupants. The gun was afterwards sold above Albany for a trifling sum. Chief Lappeus, who had kept trace of these burglaries, was convinced beyond doubt that their author was Brown, who was working his way towards California. Having good reasons to believe that Brown was in the vicinity of Eugene City, Lappeus sent officer McCoy up on the train last Monday morning to "prospect" for the rogue. However, before McCoy reached Eugene, Brown was captured for burglarizing a house. He gave his name as Dickson. At the preliminary examination Dickson, alias Brown, was held to await the action of the grand jury. Immediately on arriving at Eugene, McCoy recognized in the spurious Dickson, the veritable Brown. The authorities, however, refused to surrender Brown, so he now lies in jail awaiting the next term of the Circuit Court.

A PRAISEWORTHY ACT.—Through the vigilance of the Board of Health appointed by the Common Council, last summer, when our city was visited by the smallpox, the disease was doubtless very much checked in its spread, but still very few people had at the time any idea of the extent of the labor devolving upon them. The city has paid out since last spring, under ordinances making appropriations for preventing the spread of infectious diseases and the care of patients, the sum of $4,400. Of course much of this money has been paid on bills which under ordinary circumstances would be deemed extravagant; but as it was a matter of necessity to employ nurses, and few could be obtained, the Board of Health was sometimes at the mercy of those who were willing to act in that capacity. But there were some who never hesitated to go to the bedside of the suffering when called upon. Among them were two Sisters of Charity from St. Mary's Academy, who had had the contagion in former years, and who tenderly watched by the side of patients for upwards of forty days, and never left, except when compelled by sheer exhaustion. For their services they positively refused to receive any reward, and only brought in their bill to the Board of Health for their bare expenses made on behalf of those whom they thus attended. Such noble acts of self-sacrifice deserve the highest praise, and to be remembered with grateful hearts by an appreciative public for all time to come.

TUG MERRIMAC LIBERATED.—For the last three weeks the little tug Merrimac has been in charge of U. S. Marshal Young on the strength of a libel entered by Mr. Fred Wilson against the owners of the craft. Readers will bear in mind an item which we published about one month ago, in relation to the wrecking of a large scow loaded with cordwood some distance below Astoria. At the time the scow was in tow of the Merrimac. Mr. Wilson was the owner of the scow, and had a Government contract to furnish the Fort at Cape Disappointment with wood, the same he was engaged at the time in filling. The scow was a total wreck, and all the wood swept out to sea and lost. Soon after the scow was wrecked the Merrimac came to this city for repairs. While here, Mr. Wilson brought suit against the Merrimac for damages. Not being able at the time to furnish the required bonds $3,000—the tug was tied up on the 15th of last month. Mr. W. K. Leveridge of San Francisco, one of the principal owners of the tug arrived on the last steamer and procured at once the ... ry bonds, thus enabling the Merrimac to resume operations. It is claimed by Mr. Wilson that the loss of his barge and the wood was the result of carelessness on the part of the men who were on the tug, and he therefore asks for damages. Being thus liberated on bonds, the tug will probably go down the river to-day.

GETTING THROUGH.—At length Stark street, which for many weary weeks has been in a torn and ruptured condition, much to the inconvenience and discomfiture of the traveling public, promises in a few days more to assume its former state. In addition to the laying of the sewer, which has kept that street in a terrible state of confusion, the laying of gas mains on the opposite side of the thoroughfare during a portion of the same time, has contributed in no small measure to aggravate matters. The sewer is almost completed, only the finishing touches being now required, and the gas main has reached Front street. Soon we shall have the gratification to announce that all the earth, debris, decayed plank, timbers, etc., have been removed, a new roadway laid, and the residents of that street, as well as the perigrinating public generally, are all serene. So mote it be.

ALICE AND SHOO-FLY.—The rebuilding of the upper works of these steamers is almost completed. The Alice lies in the basin at Oregon City, undergoing the concluding touches. Steam was raised on Tuesday, and the boat will be ready for service by the middle of next week. The Shoo-Fly is at the sawmill below the city. Everything is finished excepting to tighten the joints of the steam fittings. She will be ready to run by next Saturday. Neither of these boats, however, will be used for the present—the extreme low water in the upper Wallamet prevailing.

ALL A MYTH.—We had a long conversation yesterday with Mr. Simmons, who resides adjacent to Vancouver, and whose house one of our cotemporaries has frequently of late reported as being haunted, or visited by supernatural and wholly undiscoverable noises and spirits. Mr. Simmons states that the entire report is without foundation in fact. The whole affair is a myth, created in the mind of some sensation-hunting reporter or superstitious individual who gave the information

MINNEHAHA.—The romantic and picturesque craft bearing this title, having undergone thorough and complete repairs—or more properly speaking, being almost wholly rebuilt—was launched a few days since. Yesterday she arrived from a trip down the river. The Minnehaha presents a decidedly improved appearance over her former dilapidated looks. A new cabin and almost a new hull has wrought a wondrous change for the better.

WEATHER REPORT.—The following is the report from the records of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, Oregon, for yesterday.

	7 A. M.	2 P. M.	9 P. M.
Thermometer.	50°	56°	50°
Wind, direction	E	SE	S

ABANDONED UNTIL SPRING.—We learn that Capt. Como, who has been engaged for months past in fruitless efforts to launch his vessel, the M. ... Root, has at length abandoned further efforts in that direction until next spring. Several times he has nearly succeeded in getting the schooner into water but each time the surf and tide have proved disastrous to such efforts, and driven the vessel still higher on the beach.

PASS SYSTEM ABOLISHED.—Yesterday the Directors of the Oregon and California and Oregon Central railroads, and also the Directors of the Oregon Steamship Company held a meeting. It was determined to wholly suspend and abolish the "Free Pass System." Hereafter no one can pass over either of these lines free except officers agents and employes of the companies.

GRAND JURY.—The Grand Jury which was re-summoned by order of the Circuit Court, was in session all day yesterday. As yet no bills have been returned to the Court. To-day the jury will resume investigations. Several indictments will no doubt be reported to-day, or before their final discharge.

HAULED IN.—The English bark Santa Rosa has been hauled alongside the Gas Company's wharf and is engaged in discharging ballast.

MEETING OF ASSOCIATION.—The Association for Christian work in the Unitarian Church, which was organized by committees, last February, will hold a meeting for reports, information and plans of action, this evening in the Chapel, corner of Yamhill and Seventh streets. All interested in the work of the Church are invited to be present.

BOY LOST.—Mrs. Pannmoraff, a Russian lady who resides in this city, had the misfortune to lose her little son Tony last Monday. The boy is about eight years old, has light hair, and speaks but very little English intelligibly. Any information of the whereabouts of the little wanderer will be thankfully received by an over anxious mother.

STEAM BOILER SHIPPED.—One of the steam boilers to be employed in driving Capt. Thompson's plow, was hoisted from the Vesta on Tuesday. It was placed on board a platform car yesterday and this morning will be shipped up to Mr. Thompson's large farm in Yamhill county, where it will render future service.

DISCHARGED.—In the Police Court yesterday the continued case of the State vs D. B. Franklin, charged with larceny came up for examination. Some discrepancies existed in the testimony for the State, which rendered the holding of the defendant hardly warrantable. He was therefore ordered released by the Court.

PREACHING THIS EVENING.—Citizens and strangers are cordially invited to engage in public worship in the Presbyterian Church this evening with the Presbytery of Oregon. A part of the services will be the preaching of the Word. The Presbytery will continue in session during the remainder of the week.

CHINAMAN DEAD.—A Chinaman died last evening about 8 o'clock in an old barn in the upper portion of the city, whither he was borne by some of his friends. The Chinaman had been subject to violent fits for some time. We are unable to state whether or not an inquest will be held over the remains.

ADJUDGED INSANE.—James R. Farrish, whose pr... tion in the Circuit Court for the crime of forgery has elicited much comment, and concerning which such a diversity of opinions exist, was adjudged in-sane yesterday by the Court, and remanded to the asylum. He was conveyed there yesterday afternoon.

SENTENCED.—James Johnson, who was indicted by the grand jury for illegal voting, and who pleaded guilty to the charge, was called yesterday morning in the Circuit Court for sentence. The Court imposed a fine of $250.

ARRIVED.—The American bark Mariana and schooner Lovett Peacock both arrived yesterday morning from down the river. The former v... l lies at anchor out in the stream, and the latter is discharging cargo at the wharf.

RE-ENGAGEMENT.—The patrons and friends of the Bishop Scott Grammar and Divinity School will be glad to hear of Mr. Arthur Crisfield's re-engagement in the Senior Department for the forenoon of each day.

OFF FOR THE SOUND.—The steam propeller Gussie Telfair, Capt. Gardner in command, will sail this evening at 6 o'clock for ports along the Sound. She will carry freight and passengers.

NO BUSINESS.—The County Court was in session yesterday, but transacted no business beyond examining into sundry bills against the county. The Court will resume to-day.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Glorious nights.

The bark Electra is still down the river.

More immigrants arrived on the last steamer.

Thanksgiving turkeys haven't long to live now.

The steamer Ajax is announced to sail hence on Friday.

Only two drunks were disposed of yesterday in the police court.

Eeght sailing vessels and two steamers are now in port, and mora to come.

The north side of the plaza along Salmon street is having a drain placed down.

The late rains render street improvements at present very muddy and disagreeable.

The singing section of the Turn Vereins were out serenading on Tuesday evening.

The cargo of the barkentine Portland will be discharged by this evening. Her return cargo will consist of grain.

Flocks of wild geese are constantly seen moving towards the warm fields of the south—certain harbinger of approaching winter.

Tax-payers ought to remain in a serene frame of mind while pale luna sheds her soft, silvery rays, and all that sort o' thing, for the city's gas bill will be materially reduced in consequence of the same.

Stephen Massett, who was here last year, has recently sumposed a song called "Happy as a king." Some musical genius his composed a parody entitled "Happy as a Clam." Unhappy Masset! happy parrdist!

As the steamer Ajax was coming out of San Francisco Bay, and when near Fort Point, a sailor belonging to the vessel fell overboard. The engines were immediately stopped and a boat lowered, and after a few minutes' pull, the unfortunate man was found, picked up and brought on board the ship.

A much-needed work is going on at the intersection of Front and First streets, in the triangle formed by their junction. A large number of persons are engaged in planking it with very heavy lumber, and something which will not soon be broken or worn away by the heavy loads which pass over it.

PERSONAL.

The San Francisco papers note the arrival in that city of Hon. Judge McFadden, of Washing Territory.

Mr. Charles Keuhn, a well known German citizen of Portland, returned on the last steamer from a tour to Vienna and other portions of Europe.

THE COURTS.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT—DEADY, J.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 5, 1873.

U. S. vs John L. Henderson, jury returned not a true bill, defendant discharged.

Adjourned until to-morrow.

CIRCUIT COURT—UPTON, J.

State vs James Johnson; sentenced to pay a fine of $250.

O. H. Adams & Co. vs W. L. Adams; verdict out.

J. H. Egan vs E. J. Northrup; cause on trial.

KEEP OUT THE COLD.—During the winter months everybody is anxious to avoid the severity of the weather, and various modes are resorted to in carrying out the best means of keeping warm. While BECK & WALDMAN are selling clothing from their immense stock at extremely low prices, it would be well to call in and select a winter suit. They keep the best, sell as low as any house, and do not propose to be outdone by any other house in the city. They are to be found at the old stand, S. W. corner Washington and Front streets.

Don't go home to-night without having previously made arrangements with John O'Neil & Co to do up a fall suit in their own peculiar style, which is quite popular as the elegant suits daily seen on the streets from this house will attest. Mr. Sehart, of the firm, has been to San Francisco. That is sufficient. Be sure to call and select from the latest arrivals which are new and novel. The place is 93 First street.

VANCOUVER ITEMS.

The Commissioners' Court convened last Monday. But little business thus far has been transacted.

The public schools will reopen on Monday next. Mr. Taylor, of East Portland, has been employed as principal.

Messrs. Shaw, of the Council, and Russell, of the House, have returned to the Territorial Capital after the recess of last week.

The steamer Vancouver has not made her appearance at our wharves, in accordance with the rumors of last week. Still she is anxiously expected by lovers of fast travel.

The city election on Monday last passed off very quietly. Politics had but little to do with it. The following is the ticket elected. Mayor, A. G. Tripp; Councilmen, Wall, McMullen, Jaggy, Ranch, Gridley, Wintler (Mike), and Hidden; Recorder, S. P. McDonald; Treasurer, B. M. Washburn; Marshal, M. Shea; Assessor, F. Bier.

CLOTHE YOURSELF.—Now is the time to make a purchase of winter clothing. If you have not done so make it a point to consult L. KOHN & CO., who are able to show you the finest assortment of goods ever displayed in this city. They have the largest store and are thus enabled to lay in an immense stock. There is no denying the fact. You need not hesitate about prices as they have put the figures down to allow but a small margin to themselves. The place is opposite the National Bank.

The variety of Foreign and Domestic Fruits to be seen at W. ASCHENHEIM'S, 120 First Street, is immense for this time of the year. Go and see it.

AN EXTENDED POPULARITY.—Each year finds "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES" in new localities in various parts of the world. For relieving Coughs, Colds and Throat Diseases, the Troches have been proved reliable.

The season for coughs and colds is rapidly approaching, and every one should be prepared to check the first symptoms, as a cough contracted between now and Christmas frequently lasts all winter. There is no better remedy than Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. For all diseases of the throat and lungs it should be used internally and externally.

Lung fever, common cold, catarrhal fever, and nasal discharge of a brownish color in horses, may be checked at once by liberal use of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders.

Help the Torpid Organs.

When the body is in a state of health, the food taken into the stomach acts on the bowels as a stimulant, causing in them that worm-like motion by which their contents are expelled. The liver being in a natural condition, the flow of bile (which is a mild cathartic) into the intestines is ample and regular, and hence the discharges are easy and sufficiently frequent. The reverse of all this constitutes costiveness, and the only true method of cure is to restore the functional activity of the two important organs which use the bowels as a sewer for the egress of waste matter. For this purpose Hostetter's Stomach Bitters can be confidentially recommended as the most effective of all medicines. It is not too much to say that chronic constipation would be unknown if the Bitters were in universal use as a remedy in the earlier stages of the complaint. At this period of the year, when dyspepsia with all its kindred disorders are so apt to be engendered and aggravated by the dampness of the atmosphere, this unequaled stimulant, tonic and alterative should be taken daily.

MARY AND I.

'Twas evening in May, and the soft zephyr sighed
Through branches low bending above
My Mary and I, as we wande 'd along,
And whisper'd of beauty and love.
"We'll make us a nest like the birdlings," I said,
"And never shall part any more"
"Oh yes" she replied "and can furnish it nice,
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE."

"Fair creature, there's many a wealthier man
Would gladly have you for a bride,
But no one can love you more fondly than I—
My treasure, my beauty and pride!
Oh had I a mansion, with carpets of gold!
And silver I'd cover the floor!"
But smiling, she said, "You can purchase, the best
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE."

"I'll spread you a couch upon which to recline
When evening shall call us to rest
Of the fleeciest down"—"but" she said with a sigh,
"I like a hair mattrass the best."
"Then so it shall be love, and tables inlaid,
And seats from some far distant shore."
"Oh no," she exclaimed, "They have elegant sets
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE."

"But, Mary, alas I must sadly confess
My means are but slender as yet,
To furnish a house in the style you demand
Would hopelessly plunge me in debt—
To ask you to share my poor lodgings and board
Is something that I should deplore."
She said with a smile, "You can buy very cheap
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE."

"To-morrow ... love ... journey along
To the corner of Alder and Front street—
'Tis numbers 98 and 100 (river side,)
Where lovers so ... ly meet
How many fond ... might be severed for years
From those they so fondly adore
Were it not for the beautiful furniture they have,
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE."

They have marble top bureaus and elegant sets
Of Bedroom furniture new
With center tables and ...
And an endless variety ...
They do a cash business and with ... in hand
To purchase every style of furniture ...
Are ... to ... all the public demand
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

We went, Mary and I, and can I ever forget
The pleasure that beamed in her face
As she gazed at the marvels of beauty displayed
In HURGREN & SHINDLER'S place
We furnished our home in an elegant style;
Been married a twelve month or more
And Mary is singing this song to the Lady
Of HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

THURSDAY MORNING, NOV 6, 1873

DE MORTUIS

BY MARGARET J. PRESTON

I

This friend now—a month ago only
Ago and you smiled in his smile
And when he grew weary or lonely
You jested to cheer him the while
He prized the sweet solace you proffered
When for gloom you gave laughter instead
You are glad of the gift that you offered
Because—he is dead

II

And because he is dead shall we gather
The humanest relics that be
(All tenderer, dearer the rather
And pile up a pagan suttee
Shall we speak of him brows bending lowly
Shall we whisper his name under breath
Is not life, in its living as holy
And solemn as death?

III

As death! What is death but the ending
Of all that the mortal can claim
The drop of the mantle descending
From the soul's mounting chariot of flame
Who wept for the prophet when guerdon
So grand was requiting all loss
Only grief for the left with the Jordan
Of trial to cross

IV

Ah! surely the angels who love us
Must yearn with an ache of desire
To point us the pathway above us
Still bright with the trail of the fire—
Must burn with compassion to urge us
As hopeless we gaze on the tide
To smite till the faith smitten surges
Of doubt shall divide

V

So, [illegible] of our friend who is walking
In his chorister garments of white
With the calm that would mellow your talking
If he sat in your presence to-night
Yes, [illegible] him with gladder elation
With prouder contentment, and shred
No [illegible] from out the narration
Because he is dead!

TREASURE FOUND

[illegible] DISCOVERY IN THE VAULTS OF THE BANK OF ENGLAND

[From] the London Court Journal.

It is not generally known that under the [illegible] of its ancient charter the Governor and [illegible] of the Bank of England are [not] only to purchase at their fair value any [precious] metals tendered to them, but also to [take] charge of any gold or silver in ingots [or] [illegible] that may be brought to them for safe [keeping]. From time to time plate chests have [been] [lodg]ed with this view in the vaults of the bank, and many of them have been there so long that they are actually rotting away. A LORD MAYOR'S WIFE.—In 1559 Sir William Hewet (cloth-worker) was Mayor whose [illegible] is estimated at £6,000 per annum. Hewet lived on London bridge, and one day a nurse playing with his little daughter Anne at one of the broad lattice windows overlooking the Thames, by accident let the child fall. A young apprentice, named Osborne, seeing the accident, leaped from a window into the fierce current below the arches and saved the infant. Years after, many great courtiers including the Earl of Shrewsbury came courting fair Mistress Anne, the rich citizen's heiress. Sir [William], her father said to one and all "No, Osborne saved her, and Osborne shall have her." And so Osborne did and became a rich citizen and Lord Mayor in 1583. He is the direct ancestor of the first Duke of Leeds. There is a portrait of the brave apprentice at Kiveton House in Yorkshire. He dwelt in Philpot lane in his father-in-law's house and was buried at St. Dionis Backchurch Fenchurch street.—Walter Thornbury

DEATH OF HEENAN.—A Denver dispatch of Oct. 28th says

The noted pugilist John C. Heenan well known as the Benicia boy died of consumption at 7 o'clock this morning at Green River Wyoming. He was on the cars en route to California, whither he was going in search of health. Heenan came to Colorado about six weeks ago, from New York seeking relief from the disease that had taken hold upon his lungs and which was contracted about seven months ago, through rupturing a blood vessel in his left lung, while engaged in muscular exercise. During his visit to this Territory he spent sometime at Colorado Springs but was confined to bed in Denver for three weeks. Up to the time of his departure he was accompanied by his old trainer, Jim Cusick, who had been [with] him for years, training him in the art of self [illegible] who was [illegible] when he [illegible]

It has been remarked heretofore that specie payments would be resumed whenever they could be from the logic of events or whenever in the [illegible] of commercial affairs our country [has] enough gold to replace the paper currency to be retired. A writer in the New York Times who thinks it probable that gold will decline to par before Congress meets in December a supposition which we think hardly well based estimates that [illegible] an elaborate calculation [illegible] [there is] now in the United States [illegible] of this [illegible] in the National Banks $[illegible] are assumed to be in private hands $[illegible] are on the way from Europe [illegible] may be expected before January. Here are $[illegible] with which to commence the substitution of coin for legal tenders whenever par is reached

The only way to keep currency at par is by making a place for gold in the circulating medium by the retirement of an equal amount of paper. The gauge of this transfer will be the price of money. When it rises above seven per cent in the financial centers the process must be stopped and it may be safely resumed when this rate falls below this figure. But the amount of gold in the country is not the most important factor of the financial situation considered in reference to the feasibility of resumption. That most important factor is that the movement of our foreign trade for the first time in many years shows a large balance in our favor with a certainty that this balance will be immensely increased. Our shipments of coin have largely fallen off—being this year up to October 1st $17 000 000 less than the same period of 1872 and $[illegible] 000 000 less than in 1871. In the same period our imports had diminished $27 000 000 while our exports had increased to the enormous extent of $[illegible] 000 000 over those of 1872. The effect of the panic will of course be to greatly diminish imports—all orders that can be will be cancelled. But the hungry markets of Europe must have our every bushel of produce and every bale of cotton we can spare. For the excess of the increasing volume of exports over the diminishing volume of imports they must pay largely in gold

The prospect therefore is that when gold is at par with currency the Government gradually begins to put gold in circulation for an equal amount of legal tenders withdrawn—we shall reach specie payment very soon, almost without knowing it.

Sugar Refinery.

The sugar refinery of San Francisco has for years been one of the leading enterprises of that city and the proprietors have been well remunerated for their outlays in establishing it. By far the greatest portion of the article used on this coast go through those mills and reach the thousands of consumers doubled in price on original cost. With our facilities there is no good reason why such an establishment should not be self sustaining in Portland and we hear that there are probabilities that it will be undertaken at no distant day. The large brick flouring mills belonging to Mr Vaughn damaged by the fire of last August, are being rebuilt, being now about ready for the roof and with the superior accommodations for wharfage etc would make an excellent site for this business. We learn that this building will either be refurnished as a flouring mill or leased for some such purpose as indicated. We should be glad to note the inauguration of this enterprise in our State, as it would tend to keep a large amount of money in our midst which is now yearly sent abroad.

De[str]uction of Crops

We learn from our California exchanges that a Convention of Farmers was recently held in San Francisco to take measures to prevent the ravages of squirrels on the wheat and other crops of the State. Facts and figures were produced, showing that farmers suffered severely from these rodents and it was recommended that the aid of legislation be invoked to exterminate if possible, these pests to agriculture. At the annual meeting of the American Social Science Congress, held about two months ago, attention was directed to the injuries done to crops by insects and other specimens of animated nature, and the statement was made that whereas the crops of the country suffer to the extent of $300 000 000 annually from these causes, not $100 000 in one hundred years had been spent by the National Congress and all the State Legislatures in devising means for preventing this destruction of agricultural products. It was then resolved to communicate with the Agricultural Department at Washington on the subject. A circular has within the last few days been issued to correspondents of the Department in the Southern States, inquiring as to the best means for eradicating the cotton caterpillar which it is said commits ravages to the extent of $40 000 000 or $60,000 000 a year. The whole question is of interest and importance to the farmer and if the Agricultural Department can find a means to exterminate locusts, grasshoppers, cotton caterpillars with all other insect or rodent enemies of the farmer, the Bureau will confer a great benefit upon the agricultural community.

The Northern Pacific.

From the Chicago Journal of Commerce we learn that, in reply to a question as to the prospect for a further prosecution of the work at the eastern end of the Northern Pacific Railroad, Superintendent Mead said

I have had no instructions to stop operations. A month ago the Company determined to make large expenditures, preparing the railroad for winter by building snow fences etc. I have received no orders to stop and infer that the Jay Cooke failure will not suspend our work. The contract for building additional road has not been let. The bids were opened two weeks ago and there were a good many requiring a great deal of computation. No award has been made. The contract to be let was for 200 miles but it was only expected to grade 30 this fall and lay the iron in the spring. That would take us to the coal beds. Cooke's failure may delay matters. Four weeks ago, when our folks met in New York every thing looked favorable. There have never been but $30 000,000 in 7 30 bonds authorized and up to that time $23,000,000 had been sold. The other $7 000 000 General Cass and some of his friends arranged to take, independent of Jay Cooke and this was what was relied upon to build the 200 miles. I know the $30,000 000 were all taken, and the intention was when the other bonds were issued, to make them bear 8 per cent. We are owing nothing in Minnesota beyond our monthly expenses, which the earnings meet. We settled the last of our old bills three months ago. About three weeks ago we commenced making a contract for snow fences, and making other preparations for winter. We expect to expend about $30,000 in this work and those recent contracts comprise all our indebtedness. This expenditure I have no order to stop

Horrible D[isease]

How many thousands of persons, both [male] [and] female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence [or] from virus absorbed into the system! Look at the pallid, emaciated and disfigured [illegible] and the broken-down [illegible] disqualifying [illegible] the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of [illegible] charlatans

Some of the self-styled [illegible] names are to be found in the [illegible] and newspapers of San Francisco and [illegible] tradesmen and became too lazy to [illegible] trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, [illegible] cancers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The [illegible] way to avoid imposition is to make [illegible] cost you nothing and may save you many [illegible] for, as advertising physicians in eight [illegible] ten are bogus, there is no safety in [illegible] them until you know who and what they are.
